

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a means of human gene therapy for inherited or acquired proliferative ocular disease. It
5 furnishes methods to exploit the ability of lentiviral vectors to transduce both mitotically active and inactive cells so that eye diseases may be treated.